The latest news Latest Search Fighting Is Magic is a former battle game title that was originally cancelled due to a truce and a Tangy Letter by Hasbro, but has since been revived as an original work developed by the development team mane6 and Lauren Faust. The game, originally titled My Little Pony: Fights Are Magic, is based on the animated series My Little Pony: Friendship is Magic, and features many characters from the show. It is developed by a group of nine volunteers who call themselves Mane6. These volunteers are part of a show of adult fans known as the Bronies. The original game is not licensed or sanctioned by Hasbro. It attracted the attention of the Evolution Championship Series because of some unique gameplay features focused on four-legged, atypical non-humanoid characters from the combat genre. Separate efforts of fans not affiliated with the Mane6 team released Edition, and the original game My Little Pony Mane6 inspired their Tribute in early 2014. The game was created from a variety of original beta assets that Mane6 developed in the first two years and then leaked to others. Flying under the radar for some time, a group of fans finished work on the Tribute Edition Fight is Magic and it was released online.
